

Kimochis Kits
for Military Families
(Ours was free!)

At the time of the writing of this blog people were donating Kimochis kits for military families, to be given to military families for free through the Kimochis web site (see below). When we got ours in the mail my daughter LOVED the Labrador puppy, and the tiny little “feelings”. We keep the “feelings” in a bowl in our living room, and they have come in handy more than a few times to use when we need to talk something out. She also loves the nesting hearts. Her dad takes the small one with him when he’s gone, and she keeps the bigger one. When he comes home again the hearts fit back together! Please go to the Kimochis web page to look into this wonderful resource.

Have fun and enjoy!

It’s our goal to help get the Kimochis Activity Kit for Military Families into the hands of as many families as possible! To apply to receive a Kimochis Activity Kit for Military Families, please email kimochime@kimochis.com with “Military Family Application” in the subject line and share the following information:

1. Tell us your story. Who in your family is a military service member? What has your experience as a military family been like? How many children are in your family? No word count limit. We are honored to learn more about you.
2. Tell us why you are interested in receiving the Kimochis Activity Kit for Military Families and how you think it will benefit your family.
3. This step is optional and will not impact whether or not you receive a donated Kimochis Activity Kit for Military Families. If you are willing, send us a photo of your family along with a signed copy of this Photo Release form.

Families will be selected at random in a lottery as donated kits become available.
